ARWIN OR NO DARWIN.

We live, we move, we know. How we got to this is a secret. Some of us have learned the way whereby our life and our health may be secured. Life is in most contact with corruption, and is its ally from inception to the close of all of earth. In many it is a struggle which shall have the mastery from the crudle to the grave. An effectual assistant of nature and of life is found, and no mistakes are possible. If used when not needed, it does no harm; and if needed at once aids the blood (the life) to throw off the death principle, or corruption. The remedy is needed when you have continued pain, or whom any organ does its office too nuche or too little. For instance, if the bowels are costive, or diarrham is present, in either case Brandreth's Pills will cure, and cure without danger and without doubt.

CHANGES OF WEATHER.

If by sudden cold weather, or other causes, the perce of the skin become partially closed, matters which should have be sain are forced back into the circulation, producing chilliness, often fover, and that peculiar feeling catching cold. Now, in these cases, a dose of five o six of Brandeth's Pilis will at once relieve the circulation and restore the health, curing a severe cold in a few hours. The life, the blootl, being simply effectually aided to throw off the principle of disease, this practice every day save thousands of lives.

MEYER AND ANOTHER V. CHURCH AND ANOTHER.

Plaintiffs sought to recover the price of 14 boxes of signresold to defendant. A witness, who was called for plaintiffs, stated that he was commissioned by defendant (Church) by purchase for him a quantity of signre, in consequence of stated that he was commissioned by defendant (Church) is purchase for him a quantity of cigars, in consequence of which he went to the shop of the plaintiffs and obtained a sample box, which he took to defendant, who, after weighing and comparing the cigars, approved of them, and said that if he approved of the bulk he would take them. He mentioned to Mr. Church that the boxes were slightly out of condition, and on that account the cigars were sold at a cheaper rate. The cigars were forwarded to defendants, who subsequently disapproved of, but did not return them. Defendants pleaded that the goods were not bength by them. Their version of the case was, that assestine in March last Mr. Gibson, a broker, came into their office and received a commission to purchase a quantity of Havannah-shaped Manillas, No. 2. He returned shortly afterwards with a bundle of cigars, which he said was a sample of a lot of cigars which could be had cheap. Mr. Church took one of the cigars, and compared and weighed it with one of his own stock. He found the sample was much lighter, and told Gibson that he did not think much of the sample, but would rather see the bulk before saying anything. Gibson replied that he supposed there would be no objection to that. The Boxes of cigars arrived at defendant warhouse during the absence of Mr. Church, and upon examination, he disapproved of them, but not being satisfied with his own opinion, he obtained the opinion of a gentlemas in Mr. Penfold a service, who saw they were not Havannah-shaped Manila o'gars. There was, however, evidence that defendant (Church), after disapproving of the cigars, instructed Gibson to the scream of Mr. Church, and upon examination, he disapproved of them, but not being satisfied with his own opinion, he obtained the opinion of a gentlemas in Mr. Penfold's assrvice, who saw they were not Havannah-shaped Manila o'gars. There was, however, evidence that seem of very defendant.

A comparison of these figures will show that the yearly increase to 1870, indicated by the railway returns, is not matained by the Customs returns, which show a decrease from 1866 to 1867, and from 1869 to 1871. The falling-off in the shipment from private shoots between 1868 and 1870, and the proportionate increase in the railway returns, are the 168 the Merkam and Burwood aboots having caused speciation in 1868.

The bulk of the coal is shipped from the Queen's Wharf, which extends 2300 feet southers ade of the hardwish and the service. In July 1869, the cighth crane was added to the list. This crane was exceeded principally for the use of steam colliers, which have a preference over sailing vessels. Many complaints have been mode of the injustice of this preference; the money was voted on the Supplementary Estimates for 1867, "for the creation of a steam crane for specific accommodation of steam colliers at Newsense and the conditions on which this crane was creeted. These cranes are capable of shipping 4500 tone per day.

In addition to the cranes, new coal staitch have been errected on the site of the old flurwood shoots, at a cost of £30,000. They commenced work in December 1870, and in December 1610 wing were let to a contractor, who agreed to ship at 1d. per ton less than is charged at the steam crane. In the capable of the staffic.

During the progress of the works on the extensions to Goulburn, Bathurst, and Murrarundi, different survey parties have been in the field, exploring the country and making trial surveys and sections, for the further extension of the cathesian of the first Southern line from the control of the Southern line from the control of the Southern line from the control of the Southern line to the Murray Mr. Whitton, in July, 1869, draws attention to the propress of the works on the catenosium strong path the country presents on engineering difficulties accompanied with plans and sections and a general description of the route from Goulburn to Engineering the section of the proposed extension extension to tanworth. A careful accerption of the countries to be followed from Goulburn to Yasa, and from Bathurst to Orange, is given, and a table of mileage, gradients, and elevations is appended.

After taking out the quantities of all the works, the average cost per mile is estimated at £6786 5s. id. on the extension to Yasas, and £6915 19s. id. on that to Orange; and though the surveyors on the line to Tanworth were removed before the revised enryeys were completed, sufficient was done to justify the belief that the cost per mile on the Northern would not be higher than on the Southern and Western extensions.

In November 1871, the survey party which had been distanded in December 1870, was re-appointed by Mr. Byrnes, on the understanding that they were to be employed exclusively on the Southern line till the completion of the survey to Yasas.

In January last, the Engineer-in-Chief revised and reduced his estimate of the preposed extensions: and on 19th June considers that, by a still further reduction in the quality of the works, inferior lines might be constructed from Goulburn to Yasa at £5397 per mile, from Bathurst to Orange at £5743 5s. Sd. per mile, and from Murrarundi to Tanworth at £5500 per mile. But though these would be perfectly safe at a speed of twenty miles an hour, he strengly recommends that the Southern line—which will ultimately be the through line to Melbourne, when speed will be an element of importance—should be extended to Albury as a first-class line at £7000 per mile.

On the let July last, by the direction of Mr. Sutherland, who had resumed the office of Secretary for Works, I requested the Engineer-in-Chief to state what progress had been made in the trial surveys, and his report of 8th July shows their position at the close of 1871.

From Goulburn to Yase working surveys had been made, and the line staked out.

Beyond Yase, rough trial surveys had been taken to Naryndera on the Murrumnidgee: but surveys should be

UNIVERSITY OARS.*

(From the Saturday Review.)

Dr. Morgan has published a very seasonable book, upon a question brought into prominent notice some years ago by the late emisent surgeon, Mr. Skey, as to the effects of the University race upon the health of the competitors. We need not waste words in proving that it was desirable to have a scientific investigation of a point upon which popular writers had pronounced such confident and such contradictory opinions. It is enough to say that Dr. Morgan is excellently qualified to arrive at the truth, both by his previous acquirements and by a laborious investigation of the special facts. He was formerly captain for three years of a college boat at Oxford; and he is now an experienced surgeon, and especially has devoted much attention to the important question of the deterioration of race. Everything which he says upon the subject deserves attention for its intrinsic value; and he speaks plainly and decidedly. We will endeavour first to give some notion of his method and his results, and we will then add our own opinion.

In the first place, Dr. Morgan has carried out his inquiry into the personal history of University oars with a completeness which leaves little to be desired. He tells us that 255 carsmen were alive at the end of 1869; he succeeded in obtaining letters from 261 of these gentlemen giving the results of their experience; and, in addition to these, he has received many particulars as to thirty-nine who had died since their performance. Out of the 294 carsmen who had rowed since the race began, seventeen either describe themselves or are spoken of by their friends as having suffered certain delinite injuries. Omitting for the present any notice of their cases, the macst instructive part of Dr. Morgan's inquiry is an elaborate statutical return compiled from the facts before him. Taking, for example, the Oxford crew of 1829, and assuming (which may be taken as approximately accurate) that the age of each competitor was twenty, it would folley from Dr. Fa

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 18, 1873.

THE instructions issued by the British Govern-THE INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED BY THE BYTHEN GOVERN-ment in reference to kidnapping are not, by any means, limited to that subject. They are virtually the extension of the British sove-reignty to the islands of Fiji. They must be understood as the preparation of a more formal assertion of dominion. One of the regulations declares that the Government of Fiji is to be recognised as de facto; but this strange proviso is added:—"You will, so long as the Government newly constituted in Fiji exercises actual authority, deal with it as the de facto Government of the districts which acknowledge its rule;" that is to say, it may be the Government of half an acre of land, according to any interpretation which may be assigned to it. We have always understood that a de facto Government is a provisional State, but at the same time one having the elements of existence and the possible capacity for a future recognition. The acknowledgment of Fiji, therefore, in the terms of this document is in reality a preparation to discount it; and it places the Government in that position of vacillation which it has hitherto held in reference to the asumption of power by the native Sovereign. It is impossible under such provision that there can be any recognition of the authority of the Supreme Court of Fiji, or indeed of any power Supreme Court of Fiji, or indeed of any power connected with or derived from it.

The subject has been under the discussion of the Government of England for several years. The difficulties created have been chiefly from the establishment of courts of law there-fore became a necessity. Every measure taken has been in harmony with the recognised rules of civilized government and now a court of civilized issues, under the authority of the Crown, in reality declaring all past acts of British sub-jects as without authority, and subjecting to jects as without authority, and subjecting to the mest serious penalties those who administer the government of Fiji, since every act performed without legal authority will expose those who perform it to the penalties of law. A recognition de facto which at the same time denies the validity of the acts of a Government is utterly confusing, and indeed dangerous; and the sooner, therefore, the step snicipated by the clause in the instructions is acted upon, the safer and the better for all parties; for it is quite clear that, consistent with the instructions, there is no legal power in Fiji, and structions, there is no legal power in Fiji, and that there is no jurisdiction in connection with the territory which it is possible to state or define. The officers of her Majesty are told to acknowledge the de facto Government within the boundaries of the districts which acknowledge its rule. Can anybody tell what those districts are, when troops are organized for the suppression of revolt which is in itself a denial of the rule which is made the test of a de facto Government. These miserable results have issued from the distractions of parties at home, and the essential difference of pinion with respect to the pelicy of the

For many years we urged the acceptance by the British Government of the sovereignty of Fiji, which might have been carried on for some years at the sacrifice of ten thousand dollars, and the payment of a small salary to the native chiefs who were capable of doing service. It appears that Lord PALMERSTON was anxious for this recognition, and the de-ficiencies of form he would have made up by less disputable power; but this rational course was declined again and again: A miscellaneous population collected at Fiji. The terrible state which resulted from the want of order remonstrance to the Government of England, and he clearly pointed out the impossibility of dispensing with some organization for any lengthened period. Still there was a refusal to undertake any expense and responsibility, and this state of things has continued until the existed about three times as long as some of declared, whatever may be the immediate intention, has really destroyed the Fijian Government without putting anything in its place. The sooner this deficiency is supplied, the more honest will be the policy British Government, and the more conformable o common sense.

The efforts of the British nation to put down kidnapping are indeed worthy of all esteem. It is not clear what necessity there was to aim a fatal blow at the only power which now exists, and which most nations would have gladly accepted for its utility by making up deficiencies in its form; but at all events it is a recognition of the duty which belongs to nations pretending to be civilised to reatrain their own vessels in barbarous countries and on the high seas. It is impossible to forget that the high seas. It is impossible to forget that the dangers grew up under neglect, and that the moderate and necessary expense of sovereignty would have enabled, if early applied, the Government of England to nip in the bud the atrocities of kidnapping. This great expense now incurred with the view of suppression would never have been required. of suppression would never have been required. It was the total indifference shown to the sub-ject by the Ministry at home that induced the planters to carry on their nefarious schemes on a scale of such atrocity as to shock the sentiments of mankind. The strong measures adopted are doubtless the most effective, and probably expense will be saved by showing a formidable front to the wretches who have disgraced their country. But this would not have been necessary had attention been paid to the inevitable course of things—had the British Government taken a decided step by accepting sovereign power, or, the next best thing, giving their sup-port to the efforts of the natives, who were more than 100,000, to establish a Government for themselves. We long ago gave the decision of the British Government, published by Earl RUSSELL, which asserted the incompetence of the subjects of the QUEEN to set up Govern-ment without royal authority. We are not therefore prepared to dispute this principle; but this was the result at Fiji. Without the assistance of the subjects of the QUEEN, its Government must have fallen into the hands of foreigners, or been conducted by men incapable of directing it, and upon a half-savage plan of administration. It is certainly undesirable to push to ex-tremes the rights of sovereignty under such circumstances; at all events, to enforce them would deprive the British residents and authority, and throw the affairs into the hands of persons who choose to assume into the hands of persons who choose to assume a foreign origin, or who might possess it.

The directions given in these instructions carefully guard foreign vessels against any interference. Unfortunately, the proportion of vessels under the British flag in the South Seas is great, but it will diminish the risk of any collision of nationality. For the most part those who have entired into this reference. part those who have entered into this nefarious trade belong to the British nation. It is not likely that others will now enter into it, or expose themselves to new risks in a calling that must cease to be profitable. While the cruisers are going about among the islands, the agents of the British Government will be alert on shore. We may hope, therefore, that the war against this abominable traffic

THE text of the new postal contract between Victoria and the P. and O. Co., published in our issue of Tuesday, is, it will have been noticed in most of the details, a copy of similar previous documents, but it has some specialities. The amount of the subsidy—£90,000—is not in any way varied by the calling at Glenelg. The company is to call or not at that place, according as the Victorian Postmaster-General directs, and it takes the contract subject to that provision, but there is nothing extra to be paid or saved in either case. This fact is equally indicated in Mr. Francis's circular telegram inviting co-operation. The only consideration for the detour is in time. If the steamers run direct between King George's ward journey from Galle to Hobson's Bay in 504 heurs, and the homeward in 461. If they are to be instructed to call at South Australia, then they are allowed 516 hours for the outward, and 485 for the homeward journey. In no case is the actual detention at journey. In no case is the actual detention at Glenelg to exceed twelve hours, nor is it to exceed twenty-four hours at King George's Sound. Western Australia is completely thrown overboard, so far as the substitution of Cockburn Sound for King George's Sound is concerned. At the Conference Mr. Barler carried it all his own way, but his vote having been secured, and his further support not wanted, he has the satisfaction of knowing that he has sold himself for nothing. The that he has sold himself for nothing. The company would not like the change, but at the same time if the capabilities of Cockburn Sound as a port of call have not been exaggerated, it would have been a benefit to all the colonies to have had Fremantle made the port of call, as the capital of Western Australia would thereby have been brought into direct communication with the other capitals; the isolation of the most backward colony of the group would have been diminished, and by it into closer contact with the more pro-perous colonies its advancement would have been stimulated. But the idea must probably be abandoned now for the term of this contract, and that is practically till the let of February, The clause in the contract referring to the terminus is as follows:—" That the port of Melbourne shall be the Australian terminus of vessels carrying letters under this agreement and such vessels shall not, after delivering the mails at Melbourne, proceed to any other port or place with goods or passengers, save or place with goods or passengers, save on the return voyage to Galle, without the consent in writing of the Postmaster-General." Another clause provides that the company should not convey any mails between Point de Galle and any of the Australasian colonies without the consent of Australasian colonies without the consent of the Postmaster-General. The word "mails" is defined in the first clause as comprehending all boxes, bags, or packets of letters, newspapers, books, or printed papers, and all other articles transmissible by the post. This wide definition will cut off from the company all that light freight and parcels business for the non-con-tributing colonies, which may consist of such articles as it is optional with the consigner to send through the post or not. At present, samples, books, magazines, and even newssamples, books, magazines, and even newspapers, may be sent either through the post or on freight, but the company is precluded from carrying for non-contributing colonies, not merely articles transmitted by post, but articles transmissible. This particular part therefore of the light freight busiwill be forced into other channels

Mr. Lanoton, in explaining to the Assembly the nature of the contract, stated that the steamer that is to arrive on the list of January steamer that is to arrive on the 1st of January, 1874, will come on to Sydney, because her outvard mail will be under the old contract. But though she will leave the port of Sydney on her return voyage, she will not be at liberty without authority to take our mails. No other steamer engaged in this mail service will visit Sydney except for docking purposes, in case the Williamstown dock should not be ready. With respect to the possibility of competition, Mr. Langron said that he had been in communication with a body of gentlemen, representing the largest and most influential firms in Melbourne, who had also been in communication with their representatives in London, and that though the Government was prepared to give the preference to a colonial company, they could get no offer within a considerable number of thousands of pounds of that made by the P. and O. Company. Perhaps if Mr. Langton had put himself in communication with people in Sydney he might have got an offer, the terms of which would not at least have been ligher than those which he has accepted.

In order to show the advantages of his new contract. Mr. LANGTON compared the probable paying. But the fair comparison would be with what Victoria needs to pay. The reduc-tion in the subsidy is of course a great economy, but that economy would have been just as great, if not greater, if the steamers had been allowed to continue their way up had been allowed to continue their way up to Sydney. In order to keep down the cost to Victoria, however, he intimates that he intends to charge South Australia £10,000 a year extra for the deviation to Glenelg. As this deviation does not in any way make the contract more expensive, this is simply nutting the arrow upon South Australia. simply putting the screw upon South Australia, and compelling it to pay the cost of Victoria's victory. At the Conference it was maintained victory. At the Conference it was maintained to be fair that the South Australians should have to be fair that the South Australians should have their mails delivered at some place within their own colony, and bribed by the ready acquiescence of Victoria in this view, the South Australian delegates gave Mr. Francis all their support, only to find [now that they are doomed to pay £10,000 a year for having helped to put Vic-toria into a position to exact it. toria into a position to exact it.

At the time Mr. LANGTON made his state-ment, he had not received the letter from Mr. PARKES, declining to share in the service, and he had evidently anticipated a different reply. He told the Assembly that the Sydney people having done their utmost and failed, had like shrewd practical common sense men, come to van ages offered by Victoria, and that there was vanisges offered by Victoria, and that there was not the slightest probability of his being put to the necessity of refusing to carry mails for New South Wales or Queensland, or for his fixing a special rate of charge on their letters. He reminded hon. members, however, that when some years ago, South Australia intimated her intention to withdraw from the P. and O. contract, the Home Government suggested that, instead of charging sixpence for the half-oz., letters might be charged eighteen pence. It is open for this arrangement to be carried out now, in which case, of ment to be carried out now, in which correspondences, the tax would fall on the correspondences, the general revenue. Mr. course, the tax would fall on the correspondents and not on the general revenue. Mr. LANGTON has a very poor estimate of the alternative routes, and concluded his statement by saying:—"Though there may be some difficulty in getting the eastern colonies to join with us, I think the ultimate result will be that the main bulk of letters and newspapers for the colonies of the Australian continent, and a large portion for New Zealand, will be carried as before by the mail service, for which the Government are now prepared." On this point it is possible that he may be somewhat in error.

A third write: — During the late wet weather most of the omnibuses have been in the open air night and day. Of course, in the daytime they must necessarily be out, but at night they ought to be put under a shed or be covered with a tarpaulin. The consequence of this continual exposure is that the windows are so swollen that they will neither open nor shut, and the drifting rain saturates the cushions, making them not only unpiessant, but positively dangerous to sit on. The mats underfoot also are wringing wet. Surely this can be prevented, and dry changes of cushions and dry straw for the feet provided. Many people prefer walking, to riding in wet buses, and the proprietors of these vehicles would find it to their advantage to consult the feelings of their customers a little more. He also adds a note— "Cats should be k-pt out of the buses at night." OUR PAVEMENTS.—A correspondent writes:—
"I have just received notice to repave the footway in front of my office in George-street, and, of course, shall have to do so, although it was only done two years since. The fact is, that sandstone is most unsuitable for paving streets where there is so much traffic as in George-street. It is too soft and porous. I think it would be much better if the Corporation would import a few thousands of pounds worth of blue slate or Yorkshire flagging, and got some large contractor to pave the whole length of the George-street footpaths with it, and charge each house so much per foot frontage. The blue stone in front of the Joint Stock Bank has been down eight years, and is almost as good as now."

IMPORTART TO MAGISTRATES.—An adjudica-

IMPORTART TO MAGISTRATES.—An adjudication of some consequence to magistrates ordinarily attending the various Petry Sessions, &c., was given in Chambers yesterday by Mr. Justice Hargrave. The driver of a licensed vehicle had been summoned to the City Police Court under the 17 Victoris, No. 26, section 35, for furious driving in a public thoroughfare. Upon the trial, the evidence of defendant was tendered in his own behalf, but the Bench (of which Mr. Charlton, J.P., was chairman) declined to samit it; this decision being based upon the Law of Evidence Act, 16 Vict, No. 15, section 3, providing that persons criminally charged shall not be competent to give evidence for or against themselves. A rule rais for probibition to set aside the conviction upon the question whether the magistrates were right in so holding was granted—and it was yesterday argued. Mr. Salomons, in support of the rule, quoted "Exparte Moffatt," 10 Sup. Court Reports, in which it was held that in a prosecution under the Stamp Act the defendant's testimeny was admissible. Upon the other hand it was contended that the Stamp Act was a fiscal statute, and that therefore the case cited did not come within the scope of present argument. His Henor discharged the rule, and held that the decision of the magistrates had been correct. The 17th Victoria, No. 25, as expressed within the presemble, was a statute for the maintenance of public peace and good order, and therefore was of a quasi-criminal nature. Offences under it being of that class, and punishable by penalties provided, the evidence of persons charged could not be accepted. IMPORTANT TO MAGISTRATES.—An adjudica-

A correspondent, referring to the coming regatta, particularly to the subject of the Intercolonial race, says:—"I presume that as there will be no Regish erwe present, the restriction as to pulling in outriggers is removed, and the race will be pulled in string-test gigs, a class of boats admirably suited to our waters, and in which our pullers are at home. Owing to the result of the last race on the Yarra, the Ballarat men are very anxious to defeat us on our own waters, and I for one think that we should afford them the opportunity of so doing, by offering a prize for all amateurs in gigs, as well as one for bona-fide amateurs. This would result in our having two crews from Victoria, and the Ballarat working men would have a chance of meeting Sydney working men, in the shape of some of our first-ches amateurs. Should this be done our men, ought to get together as soon as possible, and I have no doubt could get a first-class racing boat. I have every confidence in our Rowing Club being able to deal with any crew of bona-fide amateurs Melbourne can send here, or raise on her own waters, so will not refer to that, but I think my suggestion, if carried, our will do a good deal to make the regutta a great success. FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENTS. — The Border Watch records the following serious accidents to eyes at Mount Gambier:—"On Thursday evening a very serious accident occurred to a voung man, named Henry Studemann, employed as barman at the South Australian Hotel. When in the act of drawing the cork out of a bottle w soda water it burst, and a fragment of the glass struck one of his eyes, inflicting a deep cut across the whole of the cyclail. He was immediately sent to Dr. Jackson, who dressed the wound, but the injuries are of such a dreadful nature that it is feared the eye will have to be taken out. In any case, sight in the injured eye is permanently destroyed. On Friday morning, Otta Rodna, employed by Mr. S. Lewis, tinenith, sustained considerable injury to his left eyes. Whilst in the act of soldering, some of the molten metal got into it, causing great pain. He was at one taken to the hospital, where the metal was removed, and the eye attended to. Though sight for some time will be seriously mipaired, no permanent injury is anticipated.

PEARL FISHING.—The schooner Black Hawk (says the tryus) has returned from a pearling expedition. She has been absent from this port about wenty months, during which time she has visited Fremantle, Java, Singapore, and some of the islands in the Indian Archipelago. At Macassar, Captain Black was at last enabled, but with much trouble, to get a few Malays, whom he engaged as divers, and with them he started, and has been mederately successful in procuring shed on the north-west coast of Australia. He left the grounds in April—so many vessels working in them at the same time had cleared the banks—and after calling at Fremantle he has come on hers to refit before returning the Malays to their homes in Macassar. There has been a great mortality amongst the divers, six having died during the cruise. DEATH OF A WATERLOO VETERAM.—Mr. William Gilbert, senior. born in the parish of Biddenders, in or near the town of Tenterden, in the County of Kent, was enlisted in the 73rd Regiment of foot, at Feversham, in the county of Kent, on the 3rd of May, 1809, at the age of 17 years. AN URPUNISHABLE OFFENCE.—The result of the Wallerswang shooting case, having resulted in two years' confinement to a man protecting himself from an intolerable nuisance, gives free scope and license for the prosecution of similar unseemly proceedings. It would seem that the law or the magistrates are powerless to prevent such manifestations, and as it is virtually decided that any person must submit without redress, the sooner an Act especially meeting the case is passed, the better for isw and order. At present a lawless mobe and to as they like, and there is no redress. The above questionable statement is taken from the Western Ezeminer. Those who attend wedding rejoicings, to accended on tin pots, should always bear in mind that there is danger of the bride or bridegroom, or both, becoming suddenly indignant at the noise and fuss made on these occasions and "running a muck" at the assembled guests with ismentable results. A very painful occurrence took place lately in Hobard, Trumbull county, Ohio, at the marriage of an old lady with an old gentleman of that place, which illustrates the truth of the above remark. It seems that on the sarvival of the newly-married couple at their home they were greeted with a musical reception by the youths and madens of the come afforded those whom it was intended to honour the come afforded those whom it was intended to honour the unnot gratification. This unhappily erroneous idea was strengthened by the sudden appearance of the aged bride at the door of the hause, attired in her bridal garments, with a five-dollar note in her hand, which she pressed for acceptance on the youthful merrymakers, in order, as she considerately explained, that they might procare those refreshments which she felt convinced they sadiy needed. Three young men, with modes gratifieds at the door of the humbap youths has in consequence of this rash act band admits his wife was a little too hasty, but urges that their age should be accepted as some excuse for their pre-ferring quiet to noise on their wedding-day.

SLIGHT FLOOD IN THE NORTH.—The Tammorth Evanuation of Saturday reports floods in the district:—Rain and mud, and nothing but rain and mud, for the past fortnight. Last Saturday and Sunday the weather did show slight signs of clearing up, but the indication was but a delusion and a same; and on Monday and during the remainder of the week, until Friday morning, the rain continued to descend slinost constantly. On Tuesday, Tumbumberi Creek had overflowed its banks and inundated the raceourse, while the Goonoo Goonoo Creek was rapidly rising. On Wednesday this too had overflowed considerably. The rain continued to descend throughout Wednesday, especially in the afternoon, and in the evening so great was the quantity of water running down from the ridges that Peel-street, opposite Hrooke's, Traveller's Rest, was like a miniature lake, and fears were intertained that during the night the town would be flooded. However, such was not the case, and by Thurrday morning the back water had thowed away, although it had caused considerable damage to the foundation of a building in course of erection. On Wednesday night Cobb's mail coach, on its passage up from Murrurundi, was obliged to stop at a creck on the other side of, but near, Flagry Gully. After waiting some time, the water somewhat abatch, and the coach was able to cross, although the water came in at the one side and passed out at the other. It then proceeded to Goono Goono, where noother stoppage occurred. Here it was a matter of impossibility to take the coach over, so the passangers of whom there were serven) and vehicle were left behind, and the mails crossed over by swimming the horses through the water somewhat abatch, and the coach was able to cross, although the water came in at the one side and passed out at the other. It then proceeded to Goonog Goono, where not have the second over, so the pass with the river still rising and the rain pouring down. The fears that were felt on Wednesday relative to a complete immudation were now augmented, and it certainly looked as though there was to be a repetition of the flood of 1864. However, by 12 o'clock both the river and creek had gone down considerably, with a preportionate decrease in the water about the flats. On Thursday the coach was again stopped at Guonoo Goonoo, and as it seemed likely they would not be able to preced for some bours, the passengers made the best of a bad job, and sought shelter in an accommodation house. The creek fell so rapidily that after a short deby the coach was able to cross in safety. On Friday the morning broke frosty, though fair and fine, and continued so throughout the day. Our friends at Gunnedah and Narrabri have suffered coarderably more than even we have here, for we learn that at Gunnedah the people in many cases have been completed to leave their houses. The telegraph office and Mrs. M'Donald's were both Gooded, the latter having two feet of water in her place. At Narrabri the water has risen very high, and a flood is looked. LATES

MURDER AND ATTEMPTED SUIGIDE AT LAMBTON.—The Newcostle Pilot, speaking of the frightful occurrence at Lambhor Commonage, says:—"It appears that the murder was discovered by a neighbour of Mrs.
Lewis, her curiosity being aroused by hearing a strange noise in the house occupied by the latter. On entering the door a shocking scene presented itself. The woman was sitting in a chair, bleeding profusely from the neck, her clothes being saturated with blood. Seeing that she had an infant in her arms, and not observing that the child had been murdered, the neighbour lifted the body, when the head fell back. It was nearly separated from the trunk; and death must have been instantaneous. The floor was covered with blood, which had flowed freely from mether and child. The woman was so weak from lose of blood, that she could hardly sit up. The police were at once sent for, as also the doctor. Beyond this statement no information has yet come to hand. We are informed that no cause can be assigned for the comnitital of the dreadful deed. Mrs. Lewis is described as being a steady and respectable woman, but possessing a very violent temper. She was about proceeding to England with her husband, and is therefore presumed to have been in confortable circumstances. Mr. Lewis, who is also said to be a highly respectable man, and for whom much sympathy is felt in his sudden awful hereaccument, had disposed of his miner's tools, dee, and had made arrangement for leaving the colony almost immediately. Since the above was in type we learn that Mrs. Lewis was not expected to recover. MURDER AND ATTEMPTED SUICIDE AT LAMB-

A CURIOUS DISCOVERY.—A curious discovery is reported to have been made on Kangaroo Island, near D'Estree Bay. Some persons have found there a thick liquid like tar exuding from the rocks, and the spot was quickly secured as a mineral claim. The affair having become known, the ground all around was taken up by gentlemen well known in Adelside and Port Adelside. The stuff has been reported upon by persons considered competent to give an opinion upon it, and they state it is of value and unobably indicates the existence of coal beneath.

CHIARIN'S ROYAL ITALIAN CIBCUS.—Last night Signor Chiarin's Circus Company gave their opening performance to a crowded house, notwithstanding the improvitious weather. The specious pavilion was occupied by fully two thousand persons. A description of the building has airwady been given, and it suffices now to state that, illuminated with a circle of gas jets around the central secas, and the pillars supporting the roof being decorated with flags, it presented a much more attractive appearance than circuses generally do. The opening programme was a lengthy and varied one, and the performances were feed. seens, and the pillars supporting the roof being decorated with fiags, it presented a nuch more attractive appearance than circuses generally do. The opening programme was a lengthy and varied one, and the performances were such as have not on the whale been qualified in his part of the world by any other company. As has been stated, the company is the largest that has visited Australia: and in its equipment, the most complete. Functually at eight of clock the orchestra began the entersiament with a select overture. Four equestriennes, with an equal number of equestrians, mounted on eight beautiful caparisoned steeds, then entered the areas and, under the direction of Signor Chiarin, performed a series of evolutions, which brought down the house with applause. Afterwards J. Fallon executed a number of agile and herculean feats with common balls, ending with raising in one hand a dumb-bell, of 175 bs. weight. Much similar of the series of two intelligent ponies, one of which danced on its hind legs, and both joining in comic equestrian act. Miss Bridges proved herself a daring and skilful horsewoman. The turning was received with warm demonstrations of satisfaction, and proved the strength of the company in his department. Signor Chiarini then introduced his two horses, Prince and Duke, who went through a number of tricks in a way that went far to show that they were among the most intelligent animals of their species. O and F. Carlo afforded much entertainment by their acrobatic leats, "the Dead seld Alive" scene in a barrel being particularly amusing. G. Holland's equestrainism was deservedly applauded, and he performed the all but impossible deed of flinging a forward somersualt, after one or two failures. Miss Bridges danced on the tight-rope, and did a number of other things on it without the aid of a balancing pole, showing an agility truly wonderful. Perhaps the most admired leats on horse-back were those of Senorits Beien Cush, who, riding bure-back, carried a child in various attitudes with wonderful se

The Agent-General for the colony in London (Sir Charles Cowper) will be anthorised to announce that the new mail contract with the P. and O. Company will have so connection with the colonies of New South Wales and Queensland, which embrace a coast line of more than three thousand miles of Austraja.

We understand that a telegram, dated London, June 14, was received from the Agent-General at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. It states that the P. and O. Company propose to renew negotiations for a bi-monthly contract, which Sir Charles Cowper, acting on instructions from the Government of this colony, says that he has declined.

New Zesland papers to hand by way of Melbourne give information respecting Mr. Samuel's negotiations with Mr. Yogel; and it is pretty evident that while the proposals of this colony in regard to the co-operation of New Zealand in the San Prancisco service are generally acceptable, our Postmaster-General has been rather scurvily treated by the Premier of that colony. Indeed, welearn from a privatesource that two days after Mr. Samuel left Wellington, he was surprised when off Hokinkii to find that copies of the communications which passed between him and Mr. Vogel, including the reply which hedd not receive unit after he got to Melbourne, were published at length in Press telegrams of the local papers, with comments and incorrect statements, evidently designed to influence public feeling against his proposals. The principal objection urged nagainst participation in the contract on the part of New Zealand appears to be that New Zealand was not consulted in the first instance; but there can be little doubt that if that course had been taken, Mr. Vogel would not have been at a loss for some other pretext on which to justify his refusal. Considering the advantageous terms offered to New Zealand, which would not have been to time of the contract of the part of New Zealand, whi

BATTLE BRIDGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE REBALD.

SIR.—It is a disgrace that Battle Bridge, on the Parramatta Road, should be allowed to tumble in under the weight of some heavily loaded dray, as it surely will if left much leaner in its present condition, or leading to the destruction of the limbs, if not lives, of the passengers on a well packed omnibus. It is a year or more since I noticed (after rain) holes through which a man might easily disappear, and since then the parapet has been in such a state that it has surprised me how vehicles have escaped being capsized over the side, as most certainly the rotten woodwork forming the parapet would give way under very slight pressure. Only this morning I observed a portion of the south side of the bridge had given way, doubtless from the effects of the late rain.

Some persons I believe have a veneration for old dilapidated bridges, and if Hattle Bridge is viewed by the Commissioner for Roads for the picturesque effect it gives to the surrounding beauties of nature about this part of Petersham, I can quite understand why it is left in its present lovely state of wretchedness, but I assure you that the most ardent admirers of the picturesque would find their admiration greatly leasened were they placed in the situation of those persons who daily cross the bridge in heavily londed vehicles.

In conclusion, I would recommend the Commissioner for Roads to give the matter his attention soon, as I believe money has been voted for repairing the bridge, or some serious accident will occur. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Copyright in Telegrams.—Mr. Justice Molesworth (says the Argue) recently granted an interim injunction restraining the proprietor of the Geslong Evening Times from republishing European telegrams published in the Argue. On Thursday it was intimated in Court that the defendant would not context the matter further, but would consent to the injunction being made perpetual.

Swallowing Pisa.—The Italian gentleman who recently swallowed a fork has (says the Pall Mall Gasetts) found a dangerous rival in a French lady who has been long accustomed to seek nourishment in needles. Notwithstanding the most careful and anxious precautions of her friends, the old lady in question was successful in her daily endeavours to possess herself of her favourite fare. The most remarkable feature in the case was, not that the needles did her no harm, but that she seemed to thrive upon them. What became of them all was, not unnaturally, a constant theme of wonder in the circle of her acquaintance. The mystery has just been solved by a post-mortem examination made in the amphitheatre of L'Ecole de Médecine at Paris, and witnessed de see reports year by a well-known journalist. The needles were all found embedded in the fielsh near the old lady's backbone, ranged in neat order as if in a pincushion. So bountifully had the deceased fared that there was scarcely an inch of room left for the proper disposal of another penny worth; and her friends have at least the melancholy satisfaction of knowing that she died before the total absorption of the swallshle space had served to make the approach of the luncheon hour a ferror to her.

To-day, the inclemency of the weather again interfered with business. We are now drawing towards the close of the half-year; and it is not likely that any large transactions will take place in the import markets before the opening of

If the Colonial Treasurer is fortunate enough to receive anything like the same amount during the remaining months of the year, he will largely exceed his Estimate of this department of the public revenue. The Melbourne Argus of Friday reports:—

THE sales of shares reported to-day exhibit a decrease in the amount of business, and hardly any improvement in prices. Paxtons and Rapps sold at 3d. to 6d. dearer, but against these there was a decline of 1s. in Krohmanns. Carroll was a decline of 1s. in Krohmanns. Carroll Beards were placed at 32s. 6d. Coal shares firm. Waratah sold at 12, and are held for £1 advance. Shale Oil brought 28s.

Count Bismarck G. M. Co.—The mining manager reports:—'I am in due receipt of your letters of the 4th and 6th instant, acquainting, me of money having been forwarded to meet cost sheet to the end of May. The crushing was finished yesterday sternoot, and I am happy to say is a great improvement on the last. The quantity put through is 62 bons, yielding 44 ox. 10 dwts. of referred gold. It has turned out better than I expected, as I did not see anything like the same amount of gold in it that I was told was seen in the first lot. There is one thing about this, however, that all the gold that was in it has been got. I attended to the crushing myself, and to show you that very little gold has escaped I may mention that after cleaning up the boxes and tables all that I got from the silver and blanket send was 2 ox. of smalgam, which would not give more than 15 dwts, of gold. I am the more pleased at this becauge it shows plainly that with proper sitention very little will go away in the tailings. The present results a minprovement of nearly half an ox. to the ten on the last, which confirms me in the opinion that I have already appressed that gold must have been taken away. I do not know whether I shall be able to place the gold in the bank this week or not, as, owing to the heavy minst, I makestand it is difficult to crose the Macquaries Rivey, but I intend to try to-morrow and will got to Hill End if possible. King Alfred G. M. On account of the cross walls that cut the angles of the shaft, sinking is becoming ather troublesome. These walls are well defined, and when taken out will undermine the north side of the shaft semewhat. Timber will have to be used to make all things seems before sinking can be resumed with safety. Nearly all the principal reefs in the neighbourhood meet and intersect one another in this leasehold, and I must congratulate the shareholders on possessing so truly valuable a preparty."

Prowse and Woodward's G. M. Co.—The mining manager reports under date of the 14th instant, "The north drive on the 282 test level has been extended six feet, the lode severaging eighteen inches in thickness, and the stene of fair quality. The South drive on the same level has also extended seven feet; in this drive the lode is nine inches thick, and showing better gold than any stone seen in the mine of late. In another four feet acpes will be exampsence from both drives on this level, which will admit of more stone being raised. The amount of stone brekest dewn during the week has been thirteen tons, which by appearance seems to be of much better quality than any raised of late. It is of the utmost importance that we should extend our North drive as speedily as possible; the Crown of Old Reef Company are working near our northern boundary, and are raising very good stone which is estimated to yield four ounces per ton.

Since my last we have creased two bands of alate about 4 inches thick, the last yesterday, in which was cut a small leader two inches thick. In the upper drive we are down about 10 feet, and have spend out 11 feet along the vein, which continues to show gold. When about 2 feet deeper we shall drive along the vein towards Beard and Tallestine's, or about the same level as they got the gold. No. 2 shaft is down 26 feet and timbered. Tenders are invited for sinking another 25 feet."

This vein carries a great deal of mundle, small portions of lead, arsenie, and sulphur; the quarts looks better than any that we have come upon as yet. There can be no doubt but that this will be a leader to some main recf. The contract is now finished at a depth of 128 feet. I would recommend that the next contract entered into be 60 feet, at which depth we can drive to the east and cut the main recf."

City of Sydney Quartz Co., Tuenn—A special general meeting was held yesterday at the Masonic Hall, when the following resolution was passed,—"That the directors be recommended to increase the capital by the issue of 21,000 new shares, to be offered ratably to present shareholders as paid up to 18s., the balance of 2s. per share to be paid in monthly calls not to exceed 3d, per share per month, as required." The manager writes, on 14th June, as follows:—"I have much placeure in informing you that we have cut the big or No. I Reef in the crosscut. The reef, as far as we are into it, earries a large body of stone free from mullock. The stone is very solid, full of mundic, and good-looking enough for anything. We have not seen any gold in it as yet." The mill is in first class order, and engaged in crashing for public when not on own stone.

Paston's G. M. Master Rockingham out of Fanny (imported). Index Rockingham gamed a second prise in her class at the Royal Agricultural Show held at Chester. 1855. Sir Henry Buckley by Prince Oscar (15108), dam Jesamine-C. H. B., vol. 10, page 410.

Jessmine 6th obtained, besides other prizes, the Chullenge Cup. Victorian National Show, 1864; and at Morton and Lecch's sale was sold for a high figure.

The above valuable sire is now at Hawkes and Wright's Yards, where inspection is invited. He is a rich red colour (as his name indicates), and is one of the best-developed bulls for his age ever submitted to public competition in New Scotth Wales. Though only in moderately fair condition, he weighed before being shipped from New Zealand 1968 ibs. As a yearing he competed at various shows in Otago, and invariably carried everything before him; and as a further guarantee of his quality if need only be mentioned that his dam, Jessminse 24th, was selected from the fances stud herd of Mears. Morton and Leech, of Victoria, whose cattle exhibited at the last Show of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales realized such high prices during the Show.
